

OUTREACH AND EDUCATION

EveryCat's outreach and education events are important to raise awareness of life-saving research that impacts every cat, every day.

Whether the event is a veterinary professional symposium or conference, a cat show, pet expo, or convention, volunteer team members can help to share our mission and vision. Volunteers can make personal connections and foster a lasting, positive impression of EveryCat. They can provide event attendees with information, resources and brochures as well as answer FAQs. Volunteers are an essential part of sharing how research funded by the Foundation impacts cats, their owners, veterinarians and researchers every day!

Plus, event volunteers get to have fun sharing their love of cats. With enthusiasm and dedication that positively impacts event participants, along with games and swag, volunteers can help engage cat lovers of all ages. Volunteers can take the EveryCat mission and vision to their own communities.

Attend and share information at local happenings. Many local civic organizations often invite people to share information about a worthy charity or non-profit. Similarly, local animal shelters or rescue groups host events that you can attend and promote the EveryCat Health Foundation mission and vision.
